Robins and Red Sox Are Faltering in Homestretch

Pfeffer's Failure to Deliver, More Than Loss of Daubert or Johnston, Is Responsible for Brooklyn's Reverses—Review of Week.

By FREDERICK G. LEB.

Are the Dodgers going to fritter away the holding in the lead all season? Unless the Brooklyn boys show a decided improvement within the next fortnight it looks as though the jig will be up and the Brooklyn fans will hear the old song "Wait until next year."

Robins Play Poor Ball.

Despite the fact that the club won nine out of fifteen games in the West it has been playing poor ball ever since the National League championship game. Three straight defeats in Philadelphia and one in New York in twenty-seven innings was the climax.
